

“Rejection (Translation)”

By

Kristin Garth

"You're amazing" (need some space). "This will be published" (by some other place). "My first born child" (you love the least). "It's been a thrill" (but it must cease). "Hot ideas" (hate the verse) "Your rhyme is lovely" (content's the worst.) "We don't think you're ready" (never will). "They did not exclude you" (it's wrong to feel). "You be the grownup" (they'll do as they please.) "They're kids they don't mean it" (truth in that tease). "We must consider everyone" (but never you). "We'd love to help" (too much to do), "but trust when it most matters we'll be there" (not true) Your politeness offers no protection to an ear that's fluent in rejection.
